

Prepare to podcast.....

All over the country schools are turning to podcasting as a way of engaging pupils and developing new skills. Podcasting promotes:

- the need to speak clearly to convey a message
- writing for a purpose
- collaboration and teamwork
- use of ICT.

And with Espresso you have a wealth of video clips and other material to stimulate your pupils' creativity and support you and your pupils to create your own podcasts.

Why not consider an Espresso INSET session on Podcasting?

Our INSET session will support your teachers to use both Espresso and podcasting software, so they can embark on this activity with confidence. It will cover:

- locating appropriate stimuli on Espresso
- basic use of Audacity (free software) to record and edit sounds and then save or export them.
- sourcing jingles and sound effects from Espresso and elsewhere and combining these with recordings
- planning, recording and editing a radio show

Sessions can be a short 1 hour demonstration within a staff meeting or a longer, 2-3 hour hands-on workshop with participants producing their own radio show.

Or something else?

Podcasting is just one of the many bespoke sessions that our award-winning INSET team can deliver in your school. Other sessions you might consider are:

- embedding Espresso video in your learning platform
- using teacher and pupil home access to extend learning opportunities beyond the classroom
- exploring how Espresso can support creative approach to the curriculum.
