

ICT in Education is always changing! Keeping abreast of ways ICT can support learning and teaching as well as knowing the new technologies available is not easy. Many schools are currently unsure how to move forward with ICT as a curriculum within their school. Should they still use QCA ICT Scheme of Work? Should they be teaching ICT as a discrete subject or should it be only taught through other subjects? Is the current scheme provide breadth of coverage? Is ICT being assessed? Is it recorded, and informing parents?

ICTinspires offer a half day session aimed at helping your school develop an up to date ICT curriculum, integrated into all subjects, with materials to support assessment. Additionally, to help the subject leader ensure the breadth of ICT is covered by all teachers, electronic monitoring sheets are provided.

With teaching backgrounds and 20 years combined Curriculum ICT Adviser experience, Debbie Schofield and Anna Suggett have a wide breadth of knowledge and resources on which to draw. Apart from working with many schools, offering curriculum ICT support, advice and training, they work with local and national companies and many Local Authorities around the country to ensure the support and advice offered is current, offers best value and meets the demands of a 21st century curriculum.

Developing an Integrated ICT Curriculum session content:

The session will include:

- Reviewing ICT progression through Herefordshire LA documentation
- Workshops to plan ICT through a creative curriculum
- Monitoring breadth of coverage
- Focus on differentiation
- Assessment from EYFS to Y6
- A focus on ensuring all aspects of e-safety are covered

Alternatively, the session could be with the ICT subject leader and Head Teacher:

- to review the current curriculum, looking at alternative materials
- planning the roll out of the revised curriculum to the staff and pupils

The cost of this ½ day course is £195 + 40p per mile (max 60 miles) + VAT
